AFL-CIO Expels the Corrupted Teamsters Union

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The AFL-CIO convention today expelled the giant Teamsters Union on corruption charges.

The vote came after more than three hours of debate. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in a speech just before the vote that James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president-elect, had made repeated overtures during the past few weeks for conferences to try to compromise the ouster threat.

"Through all of it there was an indication Hoffa wanted to resign and get out of the way," Meany told delegates. Hoffa had been a target of the corruption charges which resulted in the expulsion vote today.

ATLANTIC CITY AFL head added this federation.

The committee's report said the Teamsters Union "has been and continues to be dominated or substantially influenced by corrupt influences."

Committee Secretary John J. Murphy, of the Bricklayers Union, read the 14-page report to the AFL-CIO convention.

A two-thirds roll-call vote is necessary to expel any union from the federation. With its 1½ million members, the Teamsters represents 10 per cent of AFL-CIO membership.

By NORMAN WALKER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—The day of reckoning came today to the giant Teamsters Union after year-long corruption disclosures. The AFL-CIO convention was set to ouster the truckers' union, largest AFL-CIO affiliate with 1½ million of the federation's 15 million members.

Final ouster could set off a bitter labor war. But the Teamsters claimed they would touch off no reprisals in delivering materials to plants and stores manned by AFL-CIO unionists, and the federation denied any immediate aim to establish a rival truck union.

The expulsion of the Teamsters climaxes testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee linking high Teamsters bosses to misuse of vast sums of union funds. James R. Hoffa, the union's president-elect, refused to the last.

Hempstead Crop Loss Estimated at $400,000

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas crop loss as a result of freeze, excessive rainfall and floods this year was estimated today at more than 45 million dollars.

The estimate was made by M. J. Mills, state director of the Farmers Home Administration, who said that 40 counties were being recommended to the secretary of agriculture as eligible for emergency production and economic loans to farmers.

These emergency loans are available only after official designation and when agricultural credit is not available from local sources.

Counties suffering greatest estimated losses included St. Francis, $2,000,000; Craighead, $3,570,000 and Mississippi, $4,640,000.

Counties other than those for which the FHA Advisory Committee is recommending expansion of loan facilities include Poinsett, White, Faulkner, Pope, Miller, Phillips, Arkansas, Jefferson, Union, Ouachita, Columbia and Hempstead.

Estimated damage in these counties was: Phillips, $14,104,000; White $292,000; Pope $14,000; Miller $125,000; Arkansas $500,000; Jefferson $1,265,000; Union $20,000; Ouachita $50,000; Columbia $100,000; Hempstead $400,000.

His wife was shot in the left shoulder three weeks ago in a family quarrel.

Today the couple appeared together before Magistrate Harry E. Whitney, Mrs. Hardy telling the court she did not wish to press the charge and the couple would "try to get along."

Story of Bible to Be Told at Tabernacle

"Our Bible — How It Came to Us" A feature-length motion picture which unveils the fascinating story of how the Bible has come down through the ages, will be shown at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, Sunday, Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Produced by the American Bible Society, this sound film sweeps across the centuries from the formation of the Old Testament to the present time, it shows the Scriptures in use in Palestine in the time of Jesus, how the letters of Paul and the Gospels were written and used in the early church; then comes the thrilling story of the translation into Latin, the spoken languages of Europe, and finally into English.

Explodes, Burns Without Leaving the Ground

By VERN HAUGLAND

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's first satellite launching vehicle exploded in its stand today. The Pentagon said in Washington another test probably could not be held for about 30 days.

A spokesman at Vanguard headquarters gave these details of the misfire:

"There was a loss of climber pressure in the first stage after two seconds.

"The rocket fell back on the stand, toppled over toward the water—to the east—and exploded. The fire is now out." This information was given out at 11:53 a.m.

The American attempt to put a little 3-pound test sphere into a globe-traveling course 300 miles up came more than a month after Russia had sent a 1,000-pound satellite aloft, and more than two months after the Soviets launched their Sputnik I.

Today's test was a dismal failure.

There were indications that with the failure of the Navy's attempt the Army soon might go ahead with its own effort.

A Jupiter-C missile, which the Army says could have launched a satellite before the Russians did, is being launched and here.

At Vanguard headquarters, a spokesman said today's failure was the result of a loss of climber pressure in the first stage, after two seconds.

The rocket fell back on the stand and toppled over to the east, toward the water, then exploded.

The initial burst of flame mushrooming out from the base of the rocket resembled that of any normal blastoff.

But as watchers looked for the rocket to rise, the tower of flame rose instead.

Black smoke obscured the site for three minutes, then cleared away. Columns of water could be seen playing on the rocket tower.

On Bird Watch Knoll, popular observation point, one observer shouted, "Now let's let the Army try!"

The tremendous blast of the 11-ton rocket seared the launching area and started a fire. Forty minutes after the explosion, project officers reported that the fire had been extinguished.

The ruins of the rocket lay on the ground only 100 yards from the blockhouse sheltering some of the launching crew members. The rocket fell away from the blockhouse.

Personnel in the blockhouse were ordered to remain there for a safe period.

President Eisenhower, who announced July, 1953, that the United States would attempt to launch a scientific research satellite during the International Geophysical year, had no immediate comment.

The current speed-up in the American satellite program started with Eisenhower's first chimp-up speech following Russian successes in satellite launches.

Navy Cmdr. Jay Smith, who made the Vanguard headquarters announcement in Washington on behalf of Dr. John P. Hagen, chief of the project, was asked whether the entire device was destroyed.

"I don't know yet," Smith said. Smith said his information was coming by direct telephone line from the blockhouse at the launching site and from the nearby hangar, headquarters of Paul Walsh, deputy director of the project.

Another official at the Vanguard control center said "they don't know so far how much of the satellite vehicle was demolished. Personnel inside the blockhouse had not been let outside to inspect the fallen rocket, for safety reasons.

The rocket was described as lying on the ground about 100 yards away from the blockhouse.

At the naval research laboratory, Capt. Peter Horn said there are two more rockets on the site at Cape Canaveral, but he could not say when another will be launched.

Capt. Horn said lack of thrust was the cause of the failure. He said the giant missile started off but within two seconds lost its propellant power.

Horn said it was assumed that the first- and second-stage rockets, together with their fuels, were a total loss. But he said the smaller third-stage rocket, containing the test earth satellite and using solid propellant, possibly could be salvaged.

Horn said it normally takes "four to six weeks working around the clock for a rocket crew to ready a three-stage missile after its delivery.

A total of 42 scientists and technicians were at front-line posts when the rocket ran out of power and collapsed. These included 22 service personnel and 20 employees of the Martin Co., which built the device.

All of them were in safe refuge behind the heavily reinforced walls of the blockhouse.

Cmdr. Smith took the position that, while the failure was a disappointment, it is one of the things that can be expected in developing a new rocket.

The first three tests have been to step aside—the main condition fixed by AFL-CIO leaders as the price for avoiding Teamsters expulsion.

Four other unions — the Laundry, Bakery, Distillery and United Textile Workers unions—faced similar expulsion action at next week's sessions of the AFL-CIO convention, also on charges based on disclosures before congressional committees.

The police said they seized $10 stacks of dynamite, more than 2,500 homemade bombs and various other arms.

No other details were given.

Search at Helena for Missing Man

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—Phillips County Sheriff Edgar Hickey today led a party onto the Mississippi River to search for Leland Ewart, 33, a Helena auto agency employee, who is missing and presumed drowned after he fell from a boat yesterday.

State Trooper Dwight Galloway said Ewart lost his balance when the boat hit rough water at the mouth of the St. Francis River. He and a companion were returning from a duck hunting trip.

officially described as going off very well.

The first, named TV-0, was fired Dec. 8, 1956, in a single stage test using a Martin Viking rocket. The second test, TV-1, on May 1 of this year, was a two-stage rocket using a Viking and a prototype of the Vanguard's third stage. TV-2 came Oct. 23 and was a firing of Vanguard's first stage with dummies hooked on for the second and third stages.

In today's TV-3 test, the second stage was to have been fired for the first time.

The launcher used today had been at Cape Canaveral since last August.

Today's failure was a bitter one. There was no official report from here 10 minutes after the attempt as to what happened.

One veteran observer said "she blew on the ground."

"We've seen that sort of thing before," he said wryly.

APE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A launching of America's first test satellite some time after 11:20 a.m. EST today appeared possible as crews readied the giant Vanguard rocket.

A hoped-for dawn launching failed to materialize after a series of "holds" interrupted the countdown process which precedes any rocket or missile firing.

The longest of these holds lasted from 3 a.m. to 6:30 a.m. When the count was resumed, the time remaining before a launching—assuming that all went well from then on—was 4 hours and 50 minutes.

The final two hours before a launching are the most critical and frequently develop the most unexpected delays.

The weather looked favorable. Scattered clouds started clearing after daybreak and the outlook was that wind would be moderate.

All Around Town

By The Star Staff

No questions about it, just mention a parade and folks in this area will turn out . . . they came, they saw and they were amazed . . . it was a beautiful parade with some of the finest floats — 15 in all — anywhere, regardless of size of city or funds available . . . it was indeed a credit to Hope, its churches, clubs and people . . . and special credit is due the Junior Chamber of Commerce which actually carried the ball in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and the Ministerial Alliance . . . there wasn't a bad float in the parade . . . in fact, all were so good that the judges had a very difficult time selecting winners . . . the judges were Dr. J. Dee Calos, pastor of Highland Park Baptist Church, the Rev. H. G. McDonnell, pastor of First Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Oran Coble, pastor of Central Christian Church, all of Texarkana . . . pictures of all the floats are being run in this issue . . . they were that good.

Concrete overlay will be constructed on the existing pavement at the driveway of the weight station of Highway 67, five miles west of Hope, the State Highway Department announces . . . existing pavement will not serve the purpose . . . the resurfacing project will cost an estimated $4,000 and the pavement will be 18 feet wide, four inches thick and 1,050 feet long.

Perhaps the busiest spot in the entire city centers around the Garrett Gin on Division . . . load after load of cotton is lined up for blocks waiting for cotton to be ginned . . . fair weather during the past week has sent pickers to the fields in droves . . . although it's not the best cotton in quality the quantity seems to be a great deal more than any grower hoped for a few weeks ago . . . the even so the unexpected bright picture was somewhat dimmed by more rain Friday morning.

Stock Market Moves Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved lower today after setting a mixed pattern during early dealings.

Reals were uniformly down, suffering losses extending to more than a point. Other lower groups included steels, metals, chemicals, airlines and radio-televisions.

DOROTHY DIX

Keep Fighting — You Will Win

Dear Dorothy Dix: Please tell me, who is the fool in this case? I've been married 20 years, have five children and my husband is having an affair with a married woman whose husband is conveniently on the road. I have put up a fight to save my home, but the other woman says I'm a fool for trying. She flaunts her conquest of my husband at every chance — driving up to the house to pick him up, paying his bills, dining with him flagrantly. Now, who is the fool?

DISGUSTED WIFE

Dear D. W.: Quite definitely you aren't — and don't let the other woman, your husband or any one else talk you into thinking differently. Your children must look to you for whatever home life they're going to get — don't fail them. The other two principals in this sordid affair are well aware of your wisdom and integrity. What's more they probably envy it, but haven't the guts to be decent people themselves. The party won't last forever and if the other woman's husband catches on to her infidelity, she'll wish she had stayed home and been a "fool" like you.

You're going through a very trying time, but pray it through and I'm sure your husband will come crawling back when the outside world gets too unfriendly.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a widow of 58, with a small pension. My four children are all married. I live with and keep house for one and take care of her two children while she works. I want to get married to a very nice widower. All my children like him and approve of the marriage except the daughter I live with. She reminds me that I'll lose my pension. This man will buy me a home. He is well able to take care of me.

MRS. P. Since your prospective husband is a man of means well able to provide for you, why worry about a small pension? Talk the matter over with your clergyman. If he approves of the man and match, go ahead. The lone objector will come around.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband is a contrary man, always complaining. Our three sons are acting just like him. We can't sit down to a meal without one of them finding fault. SARAH

Dear Sarah: If they find fault with meals as you serve them, let them prepare a few. A contrary husband is something you get stuck with, don't let the children fall into the same mold. You have some control over them, use it!

Dear Dorothy Dix: There's been a difference of opinion among my classmates and we'd like you to arbitrate. I say unless a girl is actually engaged to a man she has no right to be annoyed at him taking out other girls, and he has no right to question her friendships. Some of the other kids claim that when a girl and boy go steady they have no right to go with anyone of the opposite sex. In other words, obligations are, the same whether one is engaged or going steady. Who is right?

VALLI
Dear Valli: You are. Until a boy and girl are formally engaged, they have no claim on each other and no right to dictate or control each other's life. By going steady young people often take unto them selves these privileges and rights of engaged people, which is one of the pernicious effects of the steady dating rage.

NAACP Office Is Fined at N. Little Rock

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—W. A. Fair, vice president of the North Little Rock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, today was fined $25 and costs for failing to disclose confidential records of the organization.

Municipal Judge Milton McLean imposed the fine under provisions of a new ordinance which declares that certain organizations must file reports on membership and financial matters on demand.

The new law, suggested by Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, calls for fines of from $50 to $250. McLean imposed a lesser fine because of a state law which sets a limit of $25 on a fine for any city ordinance not specifically authorized by a state legislative act.

Municipal Judge Harry C. Robinson of Little Rock recently discredited this state law in fining

Man, Infant Die in Collision

LEPANTO, Ark. (AP)—A 6-week-old infant and a 74-year-old man were killed in a head-on collision near Lepanto yesterday.

The victims were Tony Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Nelson of near Lepanto, and Henry Brown, a Lepanto farmer.

Mrs. Nelson, driver of the car in which the child was riding, was hospitalized with injuries at Memphis.

The collision occurred on state highway 138 about half a mile south of Lepanto.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the state NAACP chapter, $100 for violating a similar Little Rock ordinance.

French Premier Wins Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Felix Gaillard today won a fifth confidence vote from Parliament on his demand for a special economic powers bill but there was danger his Socialist ministers might bring down the Cabinet by resigning later in the day.

First unofficial figures gave the count as 222-185 on the second reading of the economic powers bill first approved by the Assembly Nov. 19. The Communists and extreme-right Poujadists cast most of the votes against the government.

Men Dies From Carbon Monoxide
FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The body of Russell Smith, 20, of Lafayette, was found in a truck near a station oil company here yesterday.
Coroner William H. Polk ruled death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.
Polk said the truck's motor was still running when the body was found. He estimated the time of death at about 10 hours earlier.
Police were told that Smith was in a "fog" of sobriety Tuesday night and then parked his truck near the station and apparently went to sleep.

Men Dies From Carbon Monoxide
FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — The body of Russell Smith, 20, of Lafayette, was found in a truck near a station oil company here yesterday.
Coroner William H. Polk ruled death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning.
Polk said the truck's motor was still running when the body was found. He estimated the time of death at about 10 hours earlier.
Police were told that Smith was in a "fog" of sobriety Tuesday night and then parked his truck near the station and apparently went to sleep.
